Spring/summer 2017

a snapshot from the Twinning Association of Rushmoor

We've been busy!

Willkommen in Rushmoor

The Twinning Association and Leader of Rushmoor Borough Council David Clifford, warmly welcomed members of Oberursel's Twinning Association and the Mayor of Oberursel to Rushmoor.

August 2017

Most of the visitors stayed with Rushmoor families and enjoyed visits to Aldershot, Farnborough (complete with Red Arrows flying in), Portsmouth, Winchester and Jane Austen's house in Chawton. On the last day, they learned about the history of Rushmoor and its mayoralty in the Council Chamber.

Oberursel's badminton players were also in town the same weekend and Hawley Badminton Club put on a superb BBQ for all the guests, hosts and friends. An excellent evening was enjoyed by all—many thanks Hawley.

June 2017

Continuing the long-standing annual exchanges between Farnborough and Meudon's language circles, Rendez-Vous members were treated to a wonderful visit to Meudon and the châteaux of the Loire Valley in June this year. The popular Standard Athletic Club in Meudon was the venue for a magnificent meal prepared by Breaktime members for around 50 people on the last evening—merci beaucoup Meudon.

Prince Consort Library, Aldershot was built in 1859-1860 and was "established and endowed" by Queen Victoria's husband, Prince Albert, who "paid for it out of his own pocket". He also donated a thousand books to it from his own collection. The library was to contribute to the education of soldiers in the British Army. Today it is the specialist military library of the Army Library Service, particularly in the provision of information on current military topics, political subjects and international relations in support of operations, intelligence, training and education in the Armed Forces. This is achieved by the extensive use of online information, military articles and a wide range of military books. The library also regularly hosts military author talks.
